Coldest Weather Of Season Hits

By UNITED PRESS
The coldest weather of the season rolled out of the north into Dixie today, with freezing temperatures invading every southern section except parts of Florida and Texas.
Sub-zero readings prevailed for the second straight night from Minnesota across most of the northern Great Lakes. However, weathermen said a warming trend today would bring some relief to the Midwest.
The South felt the full brunt of the frigid air mass overnight, with temperatures in the teens registered as far south as northern Alabama and Georgia early today.

Snow In South
Adding to the South's wintry weather was a light snow cover across parts of Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Alabama. Up to four inches of snow blanketed portions of Virginia and the high slopes of the Appalachian Mountains, forcing schools to close and causing dangerous driving conditions.
The cold air blast, accompanied by moderately heavy snow, pushed into the Northeast overnight, dropping temperatures as much as 30 degrees below Wednesday's readings.
The heaviest snowfalls occurred along the southeastern shores of the Great Lakes Wednesday and Wednesday night, and in parts of the north Atlantic states.
Southwestern Michigan was buried under more than a foot of snow in places, with Paw reporting a 16-inch snow cover. South Bend, Ind., had a 7-inch snow accumulation. Hartford, Conn., reported 5 inches, and Newark, N.J., 3 inches.

Rains Hit Boston
Heavy rains, measuring nearly one-half inch at Boston, peppered southern New England Wednesday night, and weathermen expected the rain to change to snow with the approach of the colder air.
The United Press counted at least 18 deaths blamed on the weather, most of them in traffic crashes on icy roads. They included 6 in New England, 3 in Indiana, 2 each in Minnesota and Virginia and 1 each in Illinois, Alabama, Pennsylvania, North Dakota and Texas.

Forecasters said a warning trend will spread into the Midwest today, although more snow buries are expected in the Great Lakes region.
The Northeast will be hit with snow flurries, cold air and high winds from New England to the mountains of North Carolina.
Some early morning lows included Milwaukee, Wis., 3; Chicago, 4; Detroit, Mich., 12; Columbus, Ohio, 10; Wheeling, W. Va., 7; Washington, 16; Atlanta, Ga., 16; Newark, N.J., 23 and New York City 23.

Burley Hits Season Low
By UNITED PRESS
The Kentucky average on burley tumbled $1.25 Wednesday to a season low average of $62.08 and 15 markets reported losses despite heavier sales of 18,641,908 pounds.
Only three markets had averages topping $63. Payments to growers dropped to $10.350.667, the lowest since the 1956 season, as a steady decline in the state average. In the burley belt prices lost between $1 and $5 on two-thirds of grades marketed.
Largest drops were reported at Mayville where the average declined $2.14 and Paris which had a $2.16 loss. Eleven other markets had averages more than $1 lower than Tuesday.
Danville posted the top average in Kentucky of $63.77 while the big Shelbyville market was second with an average of $63.55 per hundred on 1,123,138 pounds sold — a drop of $1.18 from Tuesday.
Heavy sales were also reported at Lexington which sold 2,782,994 pounds, Mayville 1,132,366 and Horse Cave 1,080,647.
As prices suffered losses in the burley belt the amount of tobacco going into pools under government loan rose. Some markets reported two and three per cent of sales channeled to growers associations.
Largest losses came on lower quality leaf and nondescript with heavy volume lugs and flyings staying fairly steady. Some better baskets sold for $68 to $69 with a practical top of $67.
Overall quality of offerings was lower as the amount of poorer grades increased.
Sales of Green River — 36 at Henderson, Madenville and Owensboro brought an average of $53.33 on 757,816 pounds.
The Franklin market sold 463,510 pounds of One Sucker-35 for an average of $56.66.

Wave Damages American Destroyer
LONDON — A "tremendous" wave stove in the U.S. Destroyer Manley's superstructure during a fierce storm between the Azores and northern Spain, the Navy announced today.
One man was killed and several were injured, the Navy said. The Manley's captain reported to naval headquarters here that three of the injured men are in "critical condition."
All names were withheld until relatives are notified, the Navy said.
The storm hit the destroyer about 2 a.m. today (9 p.m. e.s.t. Wednesday), the Navy said.

Insurance Advertising Cited By Thurman

"FRANKFORT — State Insurance Commissioner C. P. Thurman Wednesday attacked the advertising methods used in Kentucky by a Texas insurance company which lacks a license from his department.
Thurman said the United Security Assurance Co., San Antonio, Tex., "does not even advertise under its own name and there is no guarantee of the ability to pay claims under the extravagant advertising it is attempting in Kentucky."
Thurman particularly objected to a radio commercial purportedly by the "old reliable insurance company."
The radio commercial stated that "it is the great American company writing family protection for more than 50 years right in your home town."
The commercial also described Thurman said, that the insurance offered and its low cost as "amazing," "sensational" and "unbelievable."
Thurman said that the United Security Assurance Co. is not licensed to transact business in Kentucky.
"Any Kentucky agent placing business through an unlicensed company will be cited to show cause why his license should not be revoked," Thurman said.
He added that the president of the Texas firm, Leonard Hyatt, advised the Better Business Bureau at Louisville, "I am a Kentucky Colonel and have a lot of personal friends in Kentucky including the attorney general and two of his assistants."
Atty. Gen. J. M. Ferguson said, "I don't remember any Leonard Hyatt, and I have never been to Texas. Of course, I might have met him in the course of business here, but I don't recall him."

Five Die In Early Morning Blaze

BARSTOWN, Ky. — Five persons were killed when an early morning fire destroyed one building of the Nelson County infirmary, a home for the aged, five miles east of here today.
Missing and presumed dead were Alice Weaver, about 65, Negro, and Mary Ellen Eldridge, an 82-year-old deaf mute, both of Barstown; Marion Ellen Waters, about 31, Elizabethown, Ky.; her mother, Ella Waters, about 60, also of Elizabethown; and Thomas Bray, 65, of near here.
Firemen said the victims apparently suffocated in the heavy black smoke that filled the entire building. The first alarm was sounded shortly before 6 a.m. e.s.t.
Firemen battled 10 - degree weather and a water shortage when they got to the home, clogged by smoke and blazing in the pre-dawn sky. Water was obtained from a pond 1,000 feet from the blazing building.
Damage to the two-story main building, was estimated at $30,000. A faulty furnace was believed the cause of the fire.
Three inmates in the main building were saved by Parkland Hibbs, who operates the institution with his wife. They were identified as George Fields, Sam Nevitt and Marion Smith.

Truman Blamed For Failure Of U.S. To Develop ICBM Missile

WASHINGTON — A Republican congressman today pointed the finger of blame at the Truman administration for U.S. failure to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) by 1953.
He said the administration acted counter to advice from General Eisenhower, Army chief of staff at the time.
Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. (R-Mich.), ranking GOP member on the House defense appropriations subcommittee, was the latest congressman to jump into the rocketing political controversy over whether Republicans or Democrats were at fault for the nation's missile lag.
Ford said the country could have had an operational ICBM four years ago if the Truman regime hadn't decided to cancel work on a test ICBM from 1947 to 1951.
Jackson Blames Ike
Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) said earlier this week that Eisenhower failed to recommend a ballistic missile program while serving as chief of staff and later as military adviser to the Truman administration.
He said this was one of the reasons the United States had fallen behind the Russians in the missile field.
Meanwhile, the Senate preparedness subcommittee went ahead with its plans to reopen its inquiry Friday into the nation's missile lag.
At Cape Canaveral, Fla., preparations were believed in progress for the third test firing of the Atlas ICBM later this week or early next week. The first two tests of the big missile were unsuccessful.
Ford told reporters Wednesday that the Truman administration in 1947 cancelled a contract issued to the Convair Co., in April 1946, to build and design a test ICBM. Convair is contractor for the current Atlas 5,000-mile ICBM.
Ike Testified in 1946-47
Ford said Eisenhower testified before the House defense appropriations subcommittee in June 1946 and February 1947, urging more exploration in the field of guided missiles, electronics and supersonic aircraft.
Ford said Convair officials, with whom he has talked, believe this country would have had an operational ICBM by 1953 if the original program had been "pushed instead of cancelled for a three and one-half year period."
"This break in continuity in the funding of our research and development work on the ICBM by the Truman administration resulted in U.S. failure to have long-range missiles in the Soviet Union," Ford said.

Postoffice Gives Mailman Chauffeur

By WILLIAM E. HOWARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The post office gave mailman Joe Biggs a chauffeur today.
Officials were taking no chances on Biggs going astray again. At least until he gets home with a mail truck.
Biggs set off Tuesday night in the truck to go about a dozen blocks from the post office to the Pennsylvania Railroad freight yards. He ended just outside New York City.
How Biggs, a 28-year old substitute employee who went to work this week, managed to get that far off his route is expected to be the subject of some serious questioning when he gets back.
There was some thought, however, that what happened to him may have been rooted in that old postal tradition: "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."
Biggs' load of mail was destined for New York City — and he got it through.
Assistant Postmaster Gordon Bell said the fledgling postman was told to take the mail to a mail car at the railroad yards. "Here's the New York mail," he was told, "Ready to go."
Biggs drove off into the gloomy night.
Nothing more was heard from him until Wednesday. It was by telephone — long distance. Biggs reported he was out of money and out of money and was awaiting orders.
His location? On the New Jersey side of the George Washington Bridge, just outside of New York City.
Officials sent a New York postal truck to rescue the mail. A driver was dispatched from Washington for Biggs and his truck.
"We don't approve of dispatching mail to New York by truck," Bell said. "But Biggs got it through several hours faster than if it went by rail."

Should Have Faith In Schools, Martin

FRANKFORT — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Robert R. Martin said Wednesday that faith in America's educational system should not be abandoned because of Russia's recent scientific successes.
Martin told a meeting of three committees appointed by the state Board of Education to study various phases of Kentucky's school system that "nothing has happened in our history that has such an impact on the American people as the launching of the Sputniks."
He said that many critics are now depicting the shortcomings of the nation's education system and urging we embark on "crash programs" and "other means of catching up with the Russians in rocket development."

Proposal Of Bulganin Is Brushed Off By Government

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower met for two hours and 15 minutes with the National Security Council today on the eve of his departure for the crucial NATO summit talks in Paris.
The White House, which normally declines to give any details of NSC meetings, said it could be "assumed" that the conferees discussed policy and planning for next week's NATO meeting.
It declined, however, to say whether Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest letter to the President figured in the discussion. Nor would it estimate when the President might reply.
There was a possibility that this government would issue an official brush-off to Bulganin's latest proposal for East-West talks. The letter has been labeled by the State Department as an attempt to torpedo the NATO talks.
The list of those attending the NSC meeting was not expanded for today's session. It included those who usually attend the NSC meetings, among them eight members who will be heading for Paris today or Friday.
Besides the President, those attending included Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles, Secretary of Treasury Robert B. Anderson, Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; James R. Killian, the President's scientific adviser; Robert Cutler, presidential adviser on national security affairs; and Brig. Gen. Andrew F. Goodpaster, White House staff secretary — all of whom will attend the NATO meeting.

Cold Wave Causes Deaths In Fires

By UNITED PRESS
At least 11 persons have died in fires, most of them attributed to the cold wave and overheated furnaces.
Five died at Barstown, Ky., early today when fire destroyed a building at the Nelson County infirmary, a home for the aged.
Three children burned to death Wednesday night in a fire that destroyed their home in a remote area near South Shore, Ky. Mrs. Charles Sowards said these were ascribed by the small of smoke and managed to shove two of her children out the door. The blaze was believed caused by an overheated wood stove.
Three-year-old Johnny Lucious died when an overloaded coal heater started a fire at the home of his parents in Birmingham, Ala. Four brothers and sisters escaped.
John Hodges, 81, a retired farmer, burned to death Wednesday night when flames destroyed his frame house near Russellville, Ill.
At Greenville, Tex., one man died and four persons were injured one seriously, in a fire started when a gas main exploded Wednesday night in the Beckham Hotel. One of the injured was blown from a third story window.
Fire destroyed three buildings in downtown Marshall, Mo., but no casualties were reported.
In Chicago, a search was underway for a firebug who has touched off 38 fires in the last week. Authorities said the pyromaniac has been active in two south side districts.

Television In Review

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — "Studio One" will move to the West Coast in January in a bid to juice its ratings by pursuing a star policy.

Monday night, "Studio One," in one of its farewell efforts out of Manhattan, presented the first section of a two-part Arthur Hailey hospital drama, "No Deadly Medicine." It was an adult eastern.

Hailey's drama deals with an ancient theme — the clash between old and new. Specifically, it traces the conflict between an elderly pathologist (played by Lee Cobb) and his new young assistant (William Shatner).

Cobb, one of our more intelligent actors, settled down into a scintillating performance, only slightly marred by an opening scene that saw him crank and cry out around like Lionel Barrymore playing Dr. Gillespie. Particularly fine, I thought, was the acting of Betty Sinclair who essayed the role of a woman doctor. Satter's performance was properly cold, but impaired a bit by some of those annoying mannerisms that so many young actors seem to affect nowadays. There were, it might be mentioned, several irritating flubs during the hours: Cobb said, "Miss Granger is having a baby" when he meant to say "Elizabeth Alexander is having a baby." Shatner referring to a town called "New Richport," said "New Haven," by mistake. And I'm sure that "one" someone referred to a character named "Dr. David Coleman" as "Dr. David Graham."

Well, that can be all changed when they move the show to Hollywood. They can just put it on film to be sure.

The channel swim: Part of the reason for Arthur Godfrey's success certainly must be chalked up to his by-play with the ladies that drop into his shows. Monday night on "Talent Scouts," Godfrey flirted with his first pretty, talent scout and twirled his face soulfully when he snuffed his second lady scout's perfume.

"Person to Person" landed Tyrone Power and his Manhattan flat for its Dec. 22 airing on CBS-TV. That new look for the ABC-TV "Frank Sinatra Show" means live programs with Dinah Shore and Sammy Davis in January.

Robert Ryan is a fine actor. It's a shame to see him wasted in triple like Monday night's "Goodbye Theatre" on NBC-TV. Richard Wall, the research chemist who's bagged $26,500 on NBC-TV's "Twenty One," looks like a young Dennis O'Keefe.

Art Baker's "You Asked For It" will visit Liberace's home on Dec. 22 to look at his 400 miniature pianos. Steve Dunne landed the emcee role in the NBC-TV nighttime version of "Truth Or Consequences" which unorks on Dec. 13. Mike Wallace will grill Lenore Ross, the 11-year old financial quizzard who won $164,000, on his ABC-TV show Dec. 21.

ABC-TV's "Maverick" again out-trended (22.6) CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan (16.5) and NBC-TV's Steve Allen (20.1) in their competing half hour Sunday.

INSPECT ROAD PROJECT—President and Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek of the Republic of China, are shown during an inspection tour of the 190-mile long "East-West" highway on the island of Formosa. Most of the road project, scheduled to be ready in 1959, is being cut through solid rock. More than 11,000 men are doing all the construction work by hand.

AIRPORT ZONING
CHICAGO — The American Society of Planning Officials reported that heavier air traffic is forcing many communities to check on their zoning regulations or considering new regulations. Cities mentioned are Portland, Ore.; Rome, N. Y.; Seattle, Wash.; and Puerto Rico.

Eleanor Roosevelt was born Oct. 11, 1884. Mount Rushmore is sometimes called the "Treasure State."

BEER UP, LIQUOR DOWN
HARTFORD, Conn. — The Connecticut Yankee has turned from 100 liquor to beer. The June report of the excise division showed a jump of 310,000 cases of the State Tax Department beer as compared with June, 1956, and a corresponding drop in the amount of liquor sold.

About one-third of this country's tractor fatalities occur on highways.

Hay-fever victims can take Stanton, Mo. For overnight refuge as long as they like in its they are requested to bring pollen free. Meramec Caverns, their own sleeping equipment.

Meet The Breds

Jerry Hoss

Jerry Hoss, 6-6; forward-center; Junior; Chillicothe, Missouri. Jerry is a transfer from Highlands Junior college in Kansas. He is working for a major in chemistry. Jerry gives some badly needed height to the squad in that he has 220 pounds distributed over a 6-6 frame, and he has been working hard in an effort to learn Murray's system of play. Through his high school and junior college career he played conservative basketball, and he must make many adjustments to play the faster game. Presently Jerry is working at both forward and center.

Larry Henson

Larry Henson, 6-5; forward; Junior; Flora, Illinois. Larry's height could be a tremendous asset to the squad which has an extreme lack of such at forward. He was impressive in last year's spring game, and should he improve this fall, he will add much to the team. He's only had a couple weeks practice and most of this was spent on fundamentals, so the coaches have no idea what contributions he will make. His best shots are a jump shot outside and a twisting up inside. His speed is average for a big boy.

Western Half Of Professional Football League Is Deadlocked

By HARRY WISMER
Written for the United Press

NEW YORK — The Western half of the National Football League is providing the professionals with the most exciting finish in many a year. Three teams deadlocked going into the final week of the regular season provide the football world with action galore, and help keep those turnstiles rolling at a merry clip.

The 49ers, Colts and Lions all have to knock off the opposition to stay in first place, unless all three are defeated, and that isn't at all likely. San Francisco, on paper has the best chance of trimming the opposition, the Green Bay Packers; the Lions face the formidable Chicago Bears in Wrigley Field, and Baltimore has to take on the high scoring Rams at Los Angeles, both rugged. But, we think they'll all make it and go into that three play off for the right to face the Cleveland Browns in the championship game.

Giants Met Defeat

The New York Giants are a probably football's most mortified bunch of players today. If they hadn't fallen from grace in the mud at Pittsburgh, they'd still have a chance for the Eastern honors. Detroit set that up by beating the Browns Sunday. New York now joins the Bears as the two real disappointments of the pro season.

The Lions are fortunate that they have two fine quarterbacks. They suffered a serious loss when Bobby Layne broke his ankle Sunday, but Tobin Rode can be counted upon to do a good job against the Bears.

No matter what happens next week the pros have had a tremendously successful season at the gate.

Has Great Season

The Rams will play to more than a million people for 18 games at home and away, including exhibitions. That's as many as most baseball clubs attract in a home schedule of 77 games. The Lions played to six sellouts, and the 49ers will match that figure next week. The Colts have had five sellouts in six games and set a new record for Baltimore.

In making our professional selections for this past weekend we predicted the three cornered tie, selecting both the Lions and 49ers to win. We missed the Steelers win over the Giants.

The intercollegiate season has come and gone, with the exception of the post season affairs. Ohio State, Notre Dame and Auburn were the three favorites to surprise the nation. They more than lived up to expectations.

WINS HEISMAN TROPHY

NEW YORK — Jay Berwanger of Chicago was the winner of the first annual Heisman Trophy, awarded by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York in 1935.

Rocky Guest Speaks

STOCKTON, Calif. — Rocky Marciano, the ex-heavyweight champion of the world, will be the guest speaker Jan. 11 at a banquet sponsored by the Stockton Jesters Club. A crowd of about 1,000 is expected to attend the annual dinner.

NIT Dates Set

NEWARK, N. J. — The Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association has set March 12-15-18-20-22 as the dates for the 1958 National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

SKYSCRAPERS

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — Ten of the 15 players listed on national champion North Carolina's basketball roster stand at least 6 feet, 4 inches and only two are under 6 feet.

Rodney Warren Of Lynn Grove Is Cage Leader In The 4th. District

Rodney Warren
District Leader

Rodney Warren, a 5'11 senior guard from Lynn Grove High School, is the leader over all cages in the fourth district by a big margin after several weeks of round ball play.

District four is composed of two counties and ten high schools. The two counties represented are Marshall and Calloway. A larger majority of the schools nestle in Calloway but Marshall possesses the higher per centage of strong powers. Their three schools, all relatively recent consolidations, are circling the basketball realm snug in the celestial orbit of the unbeaten.

Leaving a wish of smoke drifting from a trail of scorched netting, befuddled opponents and surprised spectators, quiet Rodney Warren has moved from hardwood to hardwood posting a 37.8 points-per-game average. Young Warren, a senior from last year's county champion team, fires a beautifully timed one-hand jump shot that rarely, rarely misses. An aggressive, fast-moving guard, he drives hard and fires quickly with accuracy bordering on the phenomenal. Rod's top effort for a single contest so far this season is 55 points.

First, second and third places in the individual standings of the top twenty-five district players are enthroned with Calloway boys. Billy Rogers, one of the best all-around players to be found in the region, ranks second with a 21.5 achievement. Billy, capable of playing any position, is the backbone of the Murray Training School squad and can be relied upon for a sterling performance.

Driving Danny Duncan from Hazel High School is positioned in the number three slot with a close 21.1 average. Danny, who is handicapped by a limitation of movement of his right arm, is a hard driving little guard with uncanny ability and a hard core of determination. He was chosen the "Game Guy of 1957". An award presented annually to some handicap player in Kentucky by the Flying Duteleman. The next five births on the list are occupied by our neighbors to the north, the Marshall Counicians. Although South Marshall has made a surprise start and boasts the district's best win streak, eight straight, North Marshall and Benon are regarded as a toss up for the supreme power. The North has five men on the list, Benton four and the South only two.

Family Of Five Wins Dream House

GRATERFORD, Pa. — After working for 10 years building their own house and never being able to get anything really done — a young couple here has solved the problem by winning a $30,000 home.

So far, all Mrs. and Mrs. Wilbur Dahms have done is model, but the house will be built for them and their three children—William 8, Robert 6, and David 1, as soon as they pick out a site.

Mrs. Dahms won the house by editing the makers of Sweetheart soap in 25 words why she wanted a new home. The Dahms also won furniture, kitchen appliances, a 1957 station wagon, and money to pay for food, clothing, insurance and utilities for a year.

The Dahms have been building their present home since 1946. They did all the work themselves except for plastering and electricity.

About a year after they started work on the building, fire broke out and they had to start all over again.

"We never seemed to be able to get anything really done," Mrs. Dahms said.

Mrs. Dahms said that she and her husband will probably have their new home built near Graterford.

They've already chosen a name for the new house: "Dahms Sweetheart." It's appropriate, of course, but it doesn't quite come up to the name of their present home, "The Dahmsite."

Woods Hall Plans Christmas Open House Dec. 15

Hostess for the afternoon will be the girls of Woods Hall.

GERMANS GET MATADORS

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German forces will be equipped with American "Matador" ground-to-ground missiles capable of striking more than 600 miles into Communist territory, Defense Ministry officials said today. They said it is planned to set up two "Matador" squadrons under Luftwaffe control. Only U.S. forces in Germany now have the Matadors.

THE MAN behind the gun is Fred MacMurray. He seems real ornery, but maybe it's over Dorothy Malone. You'll see them together in "QUANTEZ" in color showing the Variety Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. PRINCESS — Mohamed V. Morocco's king, holds his daughter, Princess Lalla Amina, 3, on her arrival in New York to be with him during final day of his U. S. visit. Three daughters also came along. (International)

Don't Cut Grass Too Close Or Often

FARGO, N. D. — Don't be too anxious to get behind a lawnmower, advises a North Dakota horticulturist. You may ruin the appearance of the grass.

This may have been what harried husbands have been insisting all along, but Don Hoag, horticulturist for the North Dakota Agricultural College, has provided a scientific explanation.

A lawn's beauty in the color and texture of the blades of grass, he explained. Close clipping removes most of the green blades.

This exposes the unsightly yellowish stems and gives the lawn a parched, hungry appearance. Taller growth provides shade and lessens direct evaporation of soil moisture.

How often should the grass get a trimming? Hoag said not more than once every week or 10 days. The best rule is to mow whenever the growth is one inch higher than when cut last.

Survey Shows Trend To City Shopping

OXFORD, Ohio — The Miami University Business Review here said that suburbanites are showing a trend back to downtown shopping.

A survey, conducted in Cincinnati, indicated that "fringe area" stores were declining in business while downtown merchants reported increases.

Furniture and women's stores show the most pronounced increases in downtown shopping, the report said, while the men appear to be sticking to buying clothes locally.

Children's apparel showed only slight gains in the downtown stores. The researchers attributed this to mothers not wanting to take their children to congested areas.

The report covers a six-year period from 1951-1956, inclusive.

SALES UP—Sixteen of the 25 industries in this chart show sales gains (left column) for the first half of 1957 over the same period, but most net profits (right column) did not keep pace with sales. Sales of manufacturing corporations added up to $160,000,000 in the first half of 1957, a 6 per cent rise.

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
Editorial Room Sports Editor

NEW YORK — This writer, appealed to the Supreme Court. He said, "if Cus doesn't and Jim Norris, tried over the weekend to arrange a fight, the past conference that might settle their feud and result in a heavy-weight title fight. Promoter Norris was willing. He said: 'As far as I'm concerned the feud is one-sided. I've got to sit down with Cus any time and make a fresh start in talks about a title bout.'"

The "D'Amato manager" of champion Floyd Patterson, refused point-blank to have any dealings with Norris, "because I have no confidence in the man."

D'Amato's refusal was so bitterly final there seems no hope of a rapprochement. And the situation could cause much trouble in 1958. Not only does D'Amato refuse to let young Patterson fight for Norris and his International Boxing Club, but he refuses a defense against contender who (in D'Amato's opinion) is friendly with the IBC.

In his weekend statements, Cus said that the barred "friendly" fight might include every contender listed among the top 10 in the Ring Magazine, although did not come right out and say so.

Seeks English Opponent
He repeated that he is negotiating for a spring title defense in England against an undesigned opponent. He added, "and have four offers for title fights in the United States from independent promoters."

Meanwhile, Norris stressed his willingness to confer with D'Amato. He said, "if Cus doesn't want to meet me in New York, I could fly up from Miami in 3 1/2 hours or from Chicago in two hours and 40 minutes. Any time he wants to sit down and talk it over."

But the world's best known promoter added: "If he doesn't want Patterson to fight under my promotion, I'm sure he won't let us out of business. The government might put us out, but D'Amato won't."

Norris' "government" mention referred to the monopoly decision new before the United States Supreme Court for confirmation or reversal.

Last summer Federal Judge Webster Ryan found the IBC guilty of violating the anti-trust laws and ordered that IBC be broken up. But his verdict was

Elberta Peach Barrier Is Broken

NEW YORK — Science has broken the Elberta Peach barrier which, in its way, is no less exciting than the breaking of the sound barrier was during the first years of the jet propulsion age. You see, nothing is quite so stubborn as a natural "law," and no natural law was any more stubborn than the one which seemed to govern the behavior of the Elberta peach tree.

After it dropped its leaves in the fall, nothing whatever would induce it to put forth new ones until after it had endured a period of cold days. You could put it in a hot house, into the soil most likely Elberta peach trees, you could create artificially the weather it likes best. But all this to no avail.

Productive in Georgia, for that reason, the Elberta peach tree is unknown in all-year warm climates. This is why the trees are most productive in such areas as Georgia where winters are long enough for the purpose of the tree; but still short enough for growing seasons to be long ones.

To put forth new leaves, an Elberta peach tree must first go through 960 hours — or 39 1/2-hour days — in which the temperature is below 45 degrees. It doesn't matter if there are more than 39 such days. But there can't be fewer.

Clyde W. Donoho, Jr., and David R. Walker of North Carolina State College, Raleigh, are the peach scientists who broke the barrier. They did it with the experimental planing rowing substance, gibberellic acid which is a chemical manufactured by Japanese rungs.

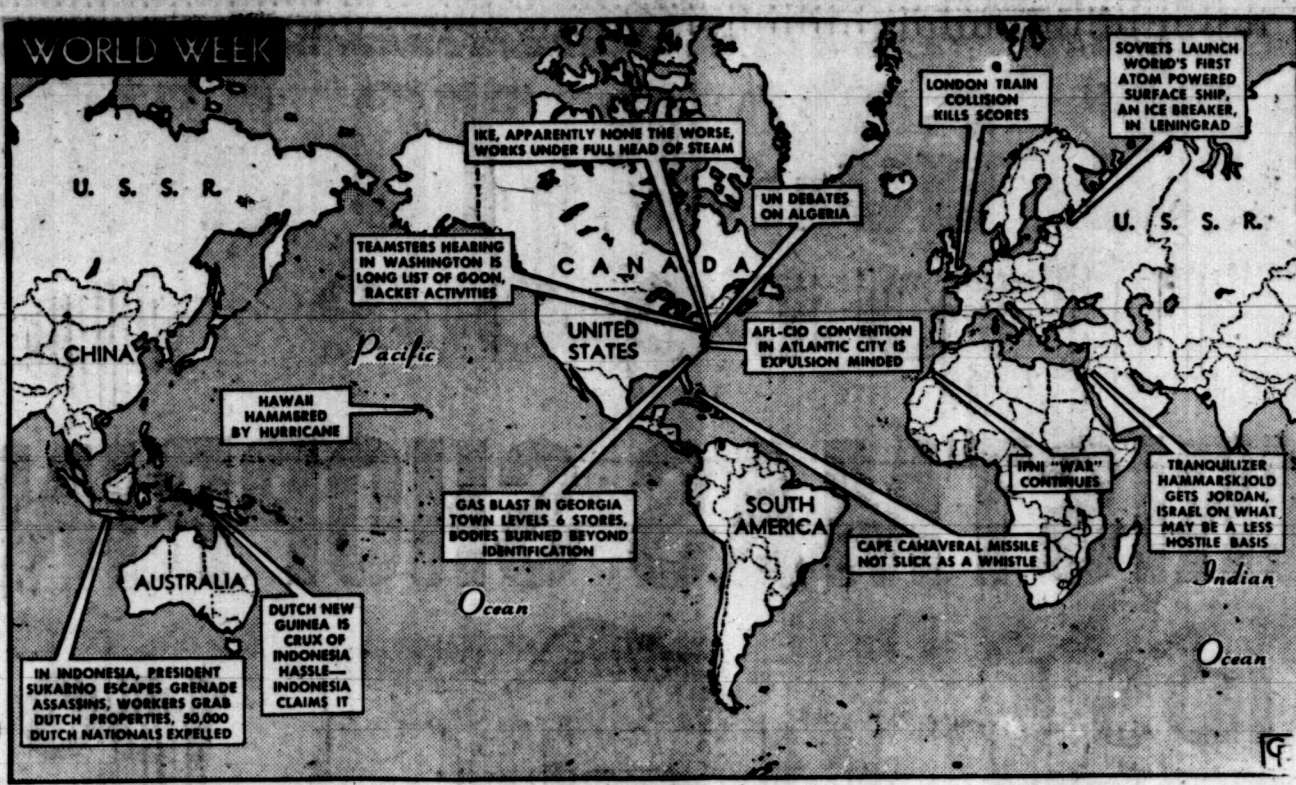

They experimented with trees which had no more than 100 hours of cold before they were transplanted from orchard into large cans and put into a storage room with a continuous temperature of 60 degrees.

After 10 days, the trees still were dormant as was to be expected. Donoho and Walker then sprayed them twice with solutions of gibberellic acid, and lo! The barrier was broken — the trees began growing and putting forth leaves!

Finding Right Solutions

Not many spraying were needed in any experiment, but the strength of the solutions was all-important. Solutions containing 1,000 to 40,000 parts of the substance per million parts were highly effective. Weaker solutions were not.

In reporting to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, they said that gibberellic acid evidently either put the whimsy on a specific Elberta peach chemical which kept it dormant or needed its over-all chemistry into functioning despite the "law."

This is the newest horticultural wonder attributed to gibberellic acid which is exciting horticulture scientists throughout the world. It has hastened the germination and the early growth of a number of important food plants. It may some day put a new face on food-growing.

CHAPTER 1

CAROL RAINY came down and faced Tracy. The tall, well-groomed woman in pale pink linen had come to her; she was the one with something to say. Tracy would wait and let her say it.

She watched Carol Rainy, noting the sleekness of her hair, the immaculate facial make-up. She was certainly a beautiful woman. She looked as much as five years older than Tracy.

Hannah. That would make it a little beyond thirty, and having failed in her first marriage, with two children to be considered, she might want to marry again, and well. A marriage to Michael Loren could be considered a worthwhile venture.

Now she was talking to Tracy with great emphasis. Urgency, even. Michael, she was telling Tracy, was terribly upset. He thought Tracy did not realize how important it was for him to have the wedding postponed.

"Did he send you to talk to me?" asked Tracy, surprised at her own calm.

"Oh, no! Don't you know the man at all?"

"I know Michael well enough," Tracy said quietly, almost indifferently. "Better than you could have come to know him in a matter of days."

"Oh, but we..." Carol Rainy broke off, and shrugged helplessly. "I was one of those instant things," she told Tracy. "An immediate and mutual understanding between us."

Tracy was getting provoked. "If he didn't ask you to come..." she began.

"I came because I didn't want you to be hurt. You really should postpone the wedding," Miss Vaughn. Do sorry — Doctor Vaughn. Her eyes swept Tracy's white garments. "So long as Michael is attracted to me,

Also, in the office are Dr. Howard Nibel and Dr. Blake Rogers, whose parents are wealthy, rents an expensive apartment.

Dr. Rogers and his wife give a pre-wedding party for Tracy and Michael. Mrs. Rainey calls at Michael's office. Michael targets to meet her. He goes to her for their marriage. After that afternoon and he returns when Tracy interrupts to insist that he keep the appointment. On the way back from the home bureau, Michael breaks his dinner date to visit Mrs. Rainey and her children. A maid tells Tracy to wait. Two days later Michael takes Tracy to his office and asks that the wedding be postponed.

CHAPTER 9

CAROL RAINNEY sat down and faced Tracy. The tall, well-proportioned woman in pale pink linen had come to her; she was the one with good timing to say, "Tracy would wait and let her say it."

She watched Carol Rainney, noting the sheen of her pale blonde hair, the immaculate facial make-up. She was certainly a beautiful woman. She looked as much as five years older than Tracy.

Tracy would wait and let her say it. "Hm-mm. That would make it a little beyond thirty, and having failed in her first marriage, with two children to be considered, she might want to marry again, and well. A marriage to Michael Loren could be considered a worthwhile venture."

Now she was talking to Tracy with great emphasis. Urgency, even. Michael, she was telling Tracy, was terribly upset. He thought Tracy did not realize how important it was for him to have the wedding postponed.

"Did he send you to talk to me?" asked Tracy, surprised at her own calm.

"Oh, no. Don't you know the man at all?"

"I know Michael well enough," Tracy said quietly, almost indifferently. "Better than you could have come to know him in a matter of days."

"Oh, but we..." Carol Rainney broke off, and shrugged helplessly. "It was one of those instant things," she told Tracy. "An immediate and mutual understanding between us."

Tracy was getting provoked. "If he didn't ask you to come to be his wife, you really should postpone the wedding," Mrs. Vaughn. "I'm sorry — Doctor Vaughn." Her eyes swept Tracy's white garments. "So long as Michael is attracted to me, you must see that — well, things might develop to hurt you. I'm terribly sorry about this whole thing. I wouldn't have had it happen for the world. But now could I know? I didn't do one thing..."

Both women knew that, on Sunday, Carol Rainey had done nothing — many things — she had spread seduction as a pitcher plant spreads its sticky lure.

"I came to you," the carefully delicate voice declared, "knowing that Michael never would give you the whole picture."

Tracy sat up straight on the couch. "Mrs. Rainey, do you know that Michael's first marriage ended in divorce?"

The smooth blonde winced. "What difference does that make?"

"It makes this difference, of course. It means that his first marriage failed. And he told me that he does not want this marriage to fail."

"You mean..." asked Mrs. Rainey.

"I mean that I am not going to talk to you about what I consider my business, and Michael's. Also," she glanced at her watch, and stood up — "I must ask you to excuse me now. Michael is due here in a half-hour to take me to meet his parents. I don't want him to find me..."

Tracy continued: "What I started to say was, I wouldn't want to make him wait. And you wouldn't want him to find you here, if he really doesn't know you've come."

"Yes," said Tracy gravely, "for he is a decent man."

Now the claws were out, and hooked. "And you're counting on that," said Mrs. Rainey slyly.

"Of course I am," answered Tracy, as smoothly. "So — will you excuse me? I must dress, and there is no point in continuing this discussion. You really should not have come. Michael could have told you that our marriage will take place day after tomorrow, as planned."

Mrs. Rainey stared at her, shocked and unbelieving. "You'd make him marry you?"

"Oh, no. I won't have to make him. Michael understands that, and perhaps would explain it to you."

"Need I remind you—" began Mrs. Rainey, standing up. "—that there's no reason for you to think I won't see Michael after his marriage? Have you thought about that? Specifically. But a doctor's wife must always give some thought to the women her husband meets and sees through his profession. I really don't think we need talk any more, Mrs. Rainey," said Tracy. "I intend to marry Michael on Saturday."
